FORUM WOOD BUILDING NORDIC 2018 – TOWARDS A NEW RENAISSANCE

Linnaeus University will host the seventh Forum Wood Building Nordic on September 27–28, 2018 in Växjö. The conference is a fantastic opportunity for academics and practitioners to meet and exchange experiences and to learn from the best within the field.

“Forum Wood Building Nordic 2018 – towards a new renaissance” highlights financial and social factors, which contributes to innovative thinking. Industry, production and products are developed as a result of progress within science and practice, as well as through an increased political openness.

Lectures by international speakers and a large exhibition where different organizations present their latest products and services have in the last few years made Forum Wood building Nordic to one of the most important conferences within wood building and wood construction in the Nordic countries.

Examples of areas that will receive a lot of attention this time are:

- Planning to build with wood – the role of procurement
- Life cycle analysis for climate-smart sustainable building
- Great timber buildings and structures
- Product and production platforms for more efficient processes
